

Chris McKee

Chris McKee is senior vice president for Strategy and Business Development at The University of Texas MD Anderson Cancer Center. In this role, he leads the development of strategy, institutional business development, enterprise risk management, and provides executive oversight for business aspects of the institution's nationwide Cancer Network. Prior to this position, Chris played various leadership roles in the management of MD Anderson's administrative infrastructure including serving as vice president for Business Operations and associate vice president for Business Affairs.

Chris also serves as chair of the MD Anderson Services Corporation Board of Directors, represents the institution on the boards of PETNET Houston, LLC, Greater Houston Healthconnect, and the South Main Alliance, in addition to leading a number of institutional committees and strategic projects. He joined MD Anderson as an administrative fellow in 2001 and has a master's in health services administration from the University of Kansas.